Wild arms race major concern for Brezhnev

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford told congressional leaders today that Soviet chief Leonid I. Brezhnev "is concerned about a wild arms race" and for that reason agreed tentatively to join in limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

"This provides adequate security for both of us," Ford told an 85-minute meeting that attracted top congressional Democrats and Republicans.

The President's remarks to the group were relayed to reporters by White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, who took notes in the meeting.

Nessen said Ford reported the accord, which would be put in final form early next year unless some hitch develops, would require the Soviets to scale down their planned nuclear weapons program.

Ford was quoted as saying the United States would probably be able to increase its array of nuclear arms slightly under the ceilings he and Brezhnev agreed to Sunday in Vladivostok.

The President sought a secrecy pledge from the members of Congress in disclosing the overall ceiling on nuclear delivery systems and a separate limit on the number of missiles each country could equip with multiple nuclear warheads.

However, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., told reporters the over-all ceiling on delivery systems would be somewhat below 2,500 for each country.

Ford was quoted by Nessen as saying that in the absence of the Vladivostok agreement, "we would have had an arms race of unbelievable cost."

The President was said to have declared that the accord gives "equivalency" to the United States and Soviet Union, meaning they would be on an equal footing.

Nessen said Ford also detailed a still-secret Vladivostok agreement dealing with modernization of weapons delivery systems, but declined to elaborate.

Ford told the members of Congress that he and Brezhnev will exchange written communications in about a week that will formalize their verbal agreement.

Asked if this meant some provisions were still to be hammered out, Nessen said: "I'm aware of none. I've heard nothing about any hangup."

Thurmond, a frequent critic of U.S. negotiations with the Soviet Union, said that if a final agreement emerges that mirrors Ford's description of it, the Senate probably would vote to approve it.

The South Carolina senator declined to reveal the still-secret numbers involved in Ford's Vladivostok verbal agreement with Leonid I. Brezhnev Sunday.

But he acknowledged that, if a final agreement is worked out, each country would be limited to less than 2,500 long-range missiles and bombers each.

Thurmond said there would be no on-site inspection to guarantee observance of the agreement and said "that disturbs me somewhat." However, he said Ford contended U.S. intelligence capabilities make on-site inspection unnecessary.

As for the whole package, which presumably would be worked out in detail early next year by negotiators in Geneva, Thurmond said "I still have some reservations and I probably always will until they (the Soviets) abandon their goal of world conquest."

He said the Soviets "don't live up to their agreements."

The South Carolinian said more precise terms of the Vladivostok accord would be made public "in about a week." He said Ford would not make any further public announcement on the subject until then because he does not want to do anything that "would upset the agreement."

The New York Times reported today that the United States and the Soviet Union agreed to limit their offensive nuclear arsenals to fewer than 2,500 long-range missiles and bombers. The two countries also agreed to limit the number of missiles carrying multiple warheads, the report said.

In addition, the United States probably would not have to make any substantial cuts in the strength of its current nuclear forces under the proposed agreement, but the Soviet Union would, according to the Times report.

Returning from a week-long overseas trip that included a meeting in Vladivostok with Brezhnev, Ford and his aides expressed optimism over the arms agreement.

BULLETIN

Four Kansas City men were arraigned in Pettis County Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon on charges named in grand jury indictments against them.

Chris Fritz, president of Musical Productions Inc., the promoter of the Ozark Music Festival, was arraigned for importation of out-of-state persons to serve police functions, a felony.

Robert Shaw, vice-president of Christenson, Barclay and Shaw, the Kansas City advertising agency firm that handled promotion of the festival; David Kinton, secretary of MPI; and Sal Brancato, vice-president of MPI, were arraigned for felony charges of confidence violations.

Shaw, Kinton and Fritz were charged with producing misleading advertising.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said there are other warrants to be served based on grand jury indictments.

Meanwhile, in U.S. District Court in Kansas City, the Baker Protection Service, doing business as Wells Fargo Guard Service, filed a motion Monday afternoon for a restraining order and temporary injunction against Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming, Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer, Circuit Clerk Bill Lyles and Sheriff Fairfax.

Fleming said he was in Kansas City Monday evening and talked with the federal judge and the attorneys for Wells Fargo. He said the purpose of the motion was to prevent any threatening prosecution against Wells Fargo for importing out of state persons into Sedalia for the purpose of police work.

Fleming would not say if an indictment against Wells Fargo on that charge had been issued.

No action was taken by the federal court and no court dates have been set.

Hire economic developer

The City Council voted 5 to 3 at a special meeting Monday night to hire a Jefferson City man as Sedalia's economic development director.

First Ward Councilman Don Broadus, who is chairman of the Economic Development Board, told the council that while John Lester Hequembourg was a young man (age 25) "he has an excellent background and many good connections in the state of Missouri."

Broadus said the post will pay $14,000 per year and Hequembourg is to begin work on or before Jan. 1.

The council broke its previous deadlock on the economic developer's post at its last meeting on Nov. 18, when Democratic Third Ward Councilman Bob Wells changed his mind from previous council discussions and sided with Republican councilmen to allow the Economic Development Board to interview applicants.

Also voting against hiring Hequembourg was Second Ward Councilman Raymond Bales, who was not available for comment Tuesday morning.

Third Ward Councilman Carl Franklin

John Lester Hequembourg

said he wished to qualify his vote against Hequembourg's hiring: "My opposition to the post is not a reflection on the Economic Development Board or the man they wish to hire. I am opposed to the money we will spend in this area, when other area needs are more pressing. However, I will give this new man all the help I can."

Second Ward Councilman Ira Knox also made a statement to clarify his vote against the hiring of Hequembourg: "My vote is not against the man or Mr. Broadus. I have read in the local paper where over 50 per cent of the people in Sedalia are not in favor of the hiring and I will not betray the people that sent me down here."

Hequembourg, contacted at his home in Jefferson City Monday night, said he would start the job around Jan. 1, and "I am looking forward to coming to Sedalia."

"One of my primary concerns will be to take care of the industry already in Sedalia. We need to work on some of their problems during this recession and other

Yeater Learning Center

New SFCC building approved

By STEPHEN A. SEEWESTER
Democrat-Capitol Staffwriter

The State Fair Community College Board of Trustees voted unanimously Monday night to build the Yeater Learning Center.

The final plans for the center, drawn up by the architectural firm of Sammons and Buller, were approved by the board along with authorization for drilling samples necessary to complete the building plans.

SFCC President Fred Davis said the drilling samples will cost approximately $1,500, but will gather the necessary data from the entire campus for any future building projects.

The board discussed the proposed location of the center, south of the present SFCC facilities on Clarendon Road. Board

Chairman William Hopkins suggested moving the building closer to 16th Street "to provide a better image for the college."

Davis, however, explained that the facility's location would be visible from 16th Street and listed several reasons for its placement at that location.

"Our overall plan for several more buildings would form a quadrangle for the college once the plan is completed. Also, the resources center should be located close to the present student union, which will be the last phase of our building project," Davis said.

"We want to have a pedestrian campus, with automobiles limited to the perimeter parking areas for safety's sake," Davis explained.

The proposed building is estimated to cost more than $2.3 million by Sammons and Buller and will be built with $2.4 million willed to the college by the late Mrs. Elizabeth Yeater.

The college had tried unsuccessfully four times to get tax increase approved for the building program, the last defeat being on Sept. 24.

The proposed building will have 18 different instructional units and cover 66,000 square feet.

Hopkins told the board he thought the timing of the building could be a blessing in disguise considering the current economic situation.

"With the building industry in the shape it is in, the bids should be very competitive," he stated.

Welcome transformation

A Sedalia Street Department road grader began the first step Tuesday morning in transferring an area next to the Anthony Buckner Head Start Center into a fenced playground for the children. A fence is expected to be put up around the area by early next week, with most of the labor on the job being done by local Joycees.

Appropriations bill approved by House

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—A reduced $18.2 million emergency appropriations bill was sent to the Senate today after receiving unanimous approval from members of the House.

The action came as members of both chambers were preparing legislative proposals for revision of a number of the 134 laws dealing with majority rights. Some of those proposed revisions were expected to be introduced later today.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond added revision of majority rights legislation to the special legislative session call Monday as a result of a state Supreme Court decision striking down revisions made during last year's regular session as unconstitutional.

Those changes, made in one sweeping measure rather than specifically designating each law involved, lower the legal age in Missouri from 21 to 18 except for possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages.

The Senate was to go back to work later today to consider a bill raising the state's 8 per cent interest ceiling to 10 per cent.

In giving final approval to the emergency appropriations bill, the House accepted a cut of $7 million from the governor's recommendation for some welfare programs.

Rep. Hayden Morgan, D-Nevada, was successful in an amendment to cut the welfare request from $24.6 million to $17.6 million. He said officials of the Social Services Department said it would not affect the department's ability to get federal funds.

The money will fund payments to the blind, aged and disabled through March and Morgan said another supplemental appropriation could be considered in the regular session.

Also approved were expenditures of $283,000 to implement the campaign reporting law and $369,000 to pay for the special session, the third in as many years and the fourth session in 1974 counting last winter's special session, the regular session and the September veto session.

Some senators began to show signs of impatience Monday.

After the Senate leaders decided to delay debate on the usury rate bill, Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann, remarked, "Sine die (final) adjournment now would be the best thing for the people."

Tanaka's fortune forces resignation

TOKYO (AP) — Hailed two years ago as Japan's man of the future, Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka today announced his resigning in shame and embarrassment over "misunderstandings" about the sources of his private fortune.

The 56-year-old maverick of Japanese politics said he would remain as prime minister until the ruling Liberal Democratic party can find a successor. This could take two weeks.

The leading contenders are former Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda, 69, Tanaka's chief political foe, and Finance Minister Masayoshi Ohira, 64, a powerful Tanaka supporter.

The resignation plunged the conservative government party into turmoil. The Fukuda group insisted that a new party president — and prime minister — be chosen through consultation among party leaders. The Ohira faction was holding out for a full-scale party vote.

Fukuda has the backing of former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and former Deputy Prime Minister Takeo Miki, but this is regarded as insufficient. He is seeking a consensus because he feels he cannot defeat the combined Tanaka-Ohira forces in a straight vote among the dozen or so factions within the party. A combination of factions led by Tanaka, Ohira and Yasuhiro Nakasone — Tanaka's minister of international trade and industry — defeated Fukuda in 1972.

If the deadlock continues up to Dec. 10, a party convention is expected to be called. Nicknamed the "computerized bulldozer" because of his energy and skill with finances, Tanaka began his stewardship of the nation in July 1972 by spearheading a successful campaign to recognize mainland China. He ended it after another spectacular, the Nov. 18-22 visit of Gerald Ford, the first American president ever to come to Japan.

In between, inflation, soaring living costs, international monetary problems and suggestions by the respected Bungei Shinju magazine that he had used his office for private gain brought him down.

Tanaka looked like a beaten man when he handed his resignation as party president to four top LDP executives at his official residence next to the Diet, or parliament building.

DEATH NOTICES

Mrs. Anna C. Winston

KNOB NOSTER — Mrs. Anna C. Winston, 91, died Tuesday morning at Rest Haven Nursing Home, Sedalia.

She was born Sept. 8, 1883, in LaMonte, daughter of William and Eliza Ramey Choplin. She was married to Ernest Winston Oct. 12, 1902, and he preceded her in death April 19, 1974.

She is survived by six sons, E. Wayne Winston, LaMonte; Ret. Col. W. C. Winston, Portland, Ore.; K. C. Winston, Cassville; Bruce Winston, Lee's Summit; the Rev. Sidney Winston, Korea; Harold Winston, Hokkaido, Japan; one daughter, Mrs. Millard (Corrine) Edmundson, Green Ridge; one brother, James Choplin, Blue Springs; 18 grandchildren, 38 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

The body is at the Moore Funeral Home, LaMonte.

Mrs. Ruth M. Fidler

WARSAW — Mrs. Ruth M. Fidler, 81, died early Tuesday morning at the Oak Haven Nursing Home here.

She was born June 1, 1893, in Benton County, daughter of Daniel and Julia Link Yeager. She was married to Jesse Steiner in 1913 in Henderson, Iowa, and he preceded her in death in 1914. She was married to James G. Fidler in 1918 in Sedalia and he preceded her in death Jan. 23, 1963.

Survivors include two sons, Jesse A. Steiner, Kansas City; James G. Fidler, Pleasant Hill; one daughter, Mrs. Helen R. Graham, Paris, Ark.; one brother, Earl Yeager, Warsaw; and 16 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Reser Chapel here with the Rev. Cy Smith officiating.

Burial will be in the Climax Springs Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home.

Stand by statements on patrols

School officials Tuesday stood by their earlier statement that regular police patrols of the Smith-Cotton High School area have not been in effect for about the last three weeks.

Police Chief William Miller, in a statement issued to radio stations Monday, denied that the patrols had ever been discontinued.

Dr. Allen Henningsen, superintendent of schools, said Tuesday that the patrols apparently were resumed Monday. "As far as I know, yesterday was the first in two or so weeks," said Henningsen. "I think your story was accurate."

Kem Keithly, Smith-Cotton principal, also confirmed The Democrat-Capital's story on the patrols. "We've had pretty good cooperation (from police) when we have something special," said Keithly, "but as for us having a cruise car around here, they haven't for two or three weeks. We got it, then we didn't get it," said Keithly.

In his press statements, Miller said it was incorrect that police patrols of the high school area had been "stopped." The Democrat-Capital story, however, only indicated that they were no longer regular patrols, but were being done only when officers were not otherwise occupied. School officials had requested that they be done on a daily basis at appointed times.

Such patrols were apparently reinstated Monday after Mayor Jerry Jones told Miller to do so.

Pallbearers will be Basil Cole, Charles L. Cranfield, Ed Mathews, Paul Johnson, Arthur McCune and James Randall.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home.

First State to build new branch office

First State Savings and Loan Association has purchased property on the southeast corner of 16th and Limit to build a branch office, the firm announced Tuesday.

Plans call for remodeling the vacant service station on the land and using it temporarily for the branch office. Plans for the permanent branch office building are uncertain at this time, according to First State Savings and Loan President J.E. Mitchell, because of the economy.

Mitchell said the Missouri Division of Savings and Loans Supervision had approved the location for the branch office.

The purchase includes 280 feet along 16th and will include the service station property, a closed car wash and the lot between them.

Mitchell said efforts to obtain the land had been in progress for a year.

The savings and loan company may use the eventual new building on the site as its home office, Mitchell said.

Woman is listed in good condition

Janet Buso, 415 East Harvey, was reported in good condition Tuesday afternoon at Bothwell Hospital after she was allegedly beaten by John Sanders, 407 East Harvey, Monday night.

She had reported to Sedalia police that her car had also been stolen. Police reported Tuesday afternoon that the car was not stolen.

Sanders was arrested by police for assault and released on $200 bond.

New vo-tech funding method under study

After the September defeat of the State Fair Community College (SFCC) bond levy, the fourth time in five years, the area high school vocational-technical program seemed destined to be the first casualty.

However, a new method of financing currently being explored by SFCC President Fred Davis, may make such a facility a distinct possibility in the very near future.

The SFCC Board of Trustees abandoned the construction of a vo-tech center with $2.4 million from the Elizabeth Yeater estate after John Pelham, the estate's executor, ruled the money would be more appropriately used on the proposed learning resources center.

Davis reported to the board Monday night that he is looking into the possibility of an investment company building the facility and then leasing it to the college.

"I have talked to some people connected with Executive Financial Services Inc. of Kansas City who are interested in this sort of project," Davis said.

Lease is assigned to McGraw-Edison

The City Council unanimously passed two ordinances at a special meeting Monday night to allow the assignment of its lease agreement with the Permaneer Corp. to McGraw-Edison Co.

The ordinances, drawn up by City Counselor Robert Fritz, were prepared last week with officials from both companies represented and are worded "to keep all the liability in favor of the city," according to Fritz.

The ordinances were the final step before McGraw-Edison could formally start to move its portable electric tool operation to Sedalia.

The lease agreement has 10 major points:

1. Permaneer does assign and transfer to McGraw-Edison all of its rights, title and interest in and to the lease, including the fixtures, additions, and improvements located at the plant.
2. McGraw-Edison agrees to pay the city rent and other charges and assumes all covenants, conditions, stipulations, and provisions therein contained.
3. McGraw-Edison must indemnify and hold harmless Permaneer against all cost, liabilities and obligations against Permaneer arising out of McGraw-Edison's failure to comply with the terms

Hopkins said his only question was the esthetics of the complex if the new building is close to the temporary facilities now being used. "I know the most important thing, though, is the utility of the building," he added.

Trustee John Ragland told Davis the board should have regular reports on the progress of the structure. Davis said the architects had been very cooperative and would honor the board's request.

According to Davis, only a few details in the plans, including the exterior finish of the structure, remain to be decided.

In other business, the board awarded a fire, liability and special multi-peril insurance package to Aetna Life and Casualty Co. through Charles Maggard Agency Inc., 415 South Lamine, at $4,166 per year.

Hopkins noted that eight firms, one from Benton County, one from Kansas City and the rest from Sedalia, bid on the policy.

The board approved a request for a protective covering for the SFCC basketball floor located in the Agriculture Building on the State Fairgrounds.

The covering will be provided by Gary Ballard Inc., Kansas City, and will cost $1,025. However, one-half of the purchase prices will be paid by the vocational agriculture programs conducted in the building in the spring.

Davis told the board the 8-ounce canvas covering will pay for itself since it costs $300 to $400 to take the floor in and out each time.

The board accepted the resignation of William F. Buzard as counselor for SFCC's special vocational programs in Lexington. Buzard has accepted a position with the Boy Scouts of America in Bettendorf, Iowa.

The board also approved the following people for positions at SFCC: Gary Noland, director of job placement; Brice Bell, instructor in mid-management; Rhonda K. Fairs, counselor at the Lexington center, special vocational programs; and Richard J. Huhn, work training specialist at the Lexington center.

Car windows, tires damaged by vandals

Vandals shot out three car windows with a BB gun sometime over the weekend, police reported.

The windows, in a car owned by Gerald Shroeder, 816 West Third, were valued at $100. The car was parked at a service station at Broadway and Lamine at the time of the incident.

It was also reported to police by Dixie L. Brown, Marshall, that two tires and wheels, valued at $174.20, were damaged by vandals sometime Friday. The car was parked in the 400 block of South Massachusetts during the day. She told police that the tires blew out as she started to drive home. Police reported they found cuts in both tires.

U Thant will be buried in Burma

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The body of U Thant, retired U.N. secretary-general who died of cancer at 65, will be flown back to his native Burma for burial after lying in state here, sources close to the family said today.

Thant will lie in state from noon Wednesday to noon Thursday near the Meditation Room in the General Assembly building to allow diplomats and staff members to pay respects.

Then, the sources said, the body will be put on a nonstop Pan American flight for Rangoon, accompanied by Thant's daughter, Ay Aye, and son-in-law, Tin Myint U.

The funeral will follow within a few days, and Thant will be buried in the Buddhist lot of a Rangoon cemetery.

The U.N. flag on the headquarters grounds was flown at half staff today in his memory.

After Thant's death was announced Monday, the assembly stood for a moment of silence in his memory, devoted half an hour to tributes from Waldheim and regional group chairmen and put off to today a debate on whether to switch Cambodian's U.N. seat from Lon Nol's to Norodom Sihanouk's representatives.

Thant died at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York. He had suffered from cancer of the cheek for years. The cancer spread to the larynx and became complicated with pneumonia. For months he had been fed through a tube because he could not swallow.

Thant followed Trygve Lie of Norway and Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden as the U.N.'s chief administrative officer. He served 10 years, the longest tenure of all, through the organization's stormiest period ending in 1971.

Since retirement, Thant had lived in Harrison, N.Y., writing his memoirs until he became ill.

Tributes began when word of his death reached U.N. offices here. A close British co-worker, Undersecretary-General Brian Urquhart, said: "He was a very — in the true sense of the word — good man, courageous and very serious."

Waldheim credited Thant with "total dedication to the United Nations" and said, "His wisdom and his calm but resolute personality were vital factors in many critical situations." He relayed the statement by telephone from Damascus and had an aide read it to the assembly in his name. He also gave orders that Thant's body lie in state at the U.N. Headquarters building.

problems related to financing," Hequembourg said.

"I think the department will be combined into investigating these problem areas and searching for new industry for Sedalia. In the tight situation we are presently faced with, many companies are looking for sites for expansion or relocation when the economy looks up," Hequembourg said.

"It will be these people who I will talk with during the current recession," Hequembourg added.

Hequembourg is presently employed by the state on the governor's Economic Development Council, which is responsible for coordinating the state's economic development in selected "growth" communities. Hequembourg said Sedalia is not presently one of these growth communities.

He said he has had contact with Sedalia's past economic director, Bill Hall, and other Sedalia businessmen.

Hequembourg began his work with the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development after his graduation from the University of Missouri in 1972.

Hequembourg is a member of the Southern Industrial Development Council, the Chamber of Commerce Executive of Missouri and the Elks Lodge.

THANKSGIVING

THANKSGIVING 1974

Dear Friends:

We are thinking of you, our friends, as this Thanksgiving time draws near bringing with it the reminder to count our many blessings.

May the Horn of Plenty continue to shower upon you and yours peace of mind, understanding, and contentment in the small, as well as the big joys of life.

We do not go through life alone; but are interdependent one upon the other — going hand in hand together.

We appreciate your continued friendship. Happy Thanksgiving!

Gratefully,

Capping ceremony is hospital first

Lauding Candy Strippers as "part of the medical staff," Miss Gayle Homan, director, capped seven Candy Strippers Monday — a first in the history of Bothwell Hospital.

Capped were Karen Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. U. Love Jr.; Becky Kueck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kueck; Teri Holman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Holman; Janie Wagenknecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagenknecht; Melody Schreiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Schreiner; Christy Combs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Combs; and Carrie Dick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Dick. Four of the girls, Karen, Teri, Christy and Carrie, were also pinned during the ceremony. Becky was recognized as having volunteered more than 700 hours at the hospital.

Miss Homan, 712 West Third, said, "They are the first class ever to be capped" the ceremony was part of "organizing the program at Bothwell," she said.

Miss Homan has been director of the Candy Strippers since August. She is an L.P.N. on second floor, south wing, and has been employed at the hospital since February.

With the new program, after a probationary period of 25 hours service, a Candy Stripper is capped. After 50 hours service, a pin is earned.

The program which Miss Homan teaches consists of three one-hour sessions. The first class informs the Candy Strippers how to relate to patients and Miss Homan commented, "Most of the girls have related very well."

Secondly the girls learn how to pass water pitchers, combining practical duties with patient interaction.

The third session, Miss Homan said, is taught by setting up a mock situation. The girls learn how to feed patients by feeding each other.

Miss Homan said the primary duties of Candy Strippers is to "do little things to help nursing personnel." They pass water pitchers, empty wastebaskets, work in the coffee shop, read to patients, distribute flowers and comb patients' hair. They work two hour shifts, two days a week.

Miss Homan said it takes a certain type of girl to become a Candy Stripper. "The girls have to choose between school activities or the program" because working hours conflict with after school activities. But, she said, some girls manage to be active in both.

Of the girls that go through the program, Miss Homan predicted that "maybe one third will become nurses."

Besides parents and hospital volunteers, attending the capping ceremony was Don Feedback, hospital administrator, who said about the Candy Stripper program, "As far as patients are concerned, it's icing on the cake."

"When young people are around, it raises your spirit and outlook and this program adds a personal touch to a service operation."

High school girls are eligible to become Candy Strippers, Miss Homan said, and the classes are not limited in size. She plans to start her next class in January.

Doctors needed in rural areas

PHILADELPHIA. (AP) — Twenty-year-old Bonnie Metzger and 19-year-old Maureen Maguire are so concerned about physician shortages in the small towns where they were born and raised that they're doing something about it. They're studying to become country doctors.

Friends since the seventh grade, the girls grew up near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., an area which has only one physician for every 3,500 residents — sharply below the one-per-1,000 figure generally considered adequate.

Both Bonnie and Maureen are freshmen at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, a major Philadelphia medical center which believes it has the answer to physician scarcities in outlying areas.

"Start out with the right medical students, and you'll soon end the national shortage of country doctors," declares Wharton Shober, Hahnemann's president and chief executive officer. "We have a program to accomplish just that. Its essence is the painstaking care people who care very much about the welfare of others."

Bonnie and Maureen are emphatic about their intention to practice medicine in a rural environment after graduation. Bonnie, from Parsons, Pa., states:

"For me to be a doctor I would want a close personal relationship with the people I'm serving. In Parsons, this would be an expansion of a relationship which already exists. My neighbors are really waiting for me to come back."

Maureen comes from Bear Creek, Pa. "My roots are planted there. My family and friends are there."

The two are similar in outlook. In particular, each is very close to her family.

"My mother has always showed her concern for me. She always cared. And my mother always trusted me," says Bonnie, whose father died in 1966. "When I decided to go into medicine, I talked it over with my mother. She helped me morally. She gave me confidence. She believed in me."

"The only way we're ever going to have doctors in rural areas is to select medical students who are happiest there."

with which students are chosen.

"The only way we're ever going to have doctors in rural areas is to select medical students who are happiest there. This is a free society. You can't force people to work where you want them to — even for the most persuasive of reasons."

Shober said the accelerated Satellite Campus program was undertaken by Hahnemann, regional colleges and community hospitals in upstate Pennsylvania to turn out doctors who are committed in advance to practice family medicine in their home towns.

"Bonnie and Maureen are typical of the group. They're 'superkids,'" says Dr. Wilbur Oaks, chairman of Hahnemann's Department of Medicine and one of the architects of the Satellite Campus program. Adds colleague Douglas Geary, the department's executive director:

"These students are handpicked for their personal attributes as well as for their academic attainments. They are warm, outgoing young with my interest in people, and it seemed that medicine was the logical choice."

Their grades are outstanding. Maureen graduated fifth in a class of 300 at Coughlin High School, Wilkes-Barre, and Bonnie ranked seventh in the same class.

Each hopes to combine her medical career with raising a family. "I would like to get into a clinical setting because there a doctor has more time to spend with his or her family," says Bonnie.

"Before I get married I'm going to tell my future husband that I'm not going to give up my career," Bonnie declares, decisively. "He'll have to be somebody special."

Sharing an apartment in a new, high-rise building within walking distance of Hahnemann, Bonnie and Maureen are too busy with their studies to get homesick. But, says Bonnie:

"Living in Philadelphia confirms that I really would like to go back home after graduation."

Polly's pointers

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those newspapers that put crossword puzzles in the fold of the paper instead of at the top or bottom of a page. — A.S.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. B.G. who wants to wrap her head in toilet tissue to save her hairdo has only to tear off enough tissue to go around her head twice. Pin tissue to the side of the head with a bobby pin, take it around to the back and pin to the other side of the head and then raise the paper a bit higher and take back around again pinning when necessary. This covers any part of the hair that touches the pillow. The tissue also absorbs perspiration as you sleep. The first time I did this my husband took one look and in amazement said, "Where do you think you are going?" Now he is used to it. I have been doing this over 20 years and my hair stays in great shape from one set to another. Tell Mrs. B.G. the tissue works better when doubled. — M.E.G.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is a way to have a smart new rug at little cost. Usually carpet dealers have old display samples of carpet for sale and often for as little as 15 to 20 cents each. Select coordinating colors all the same size and buy carpet tape at the hardware store. On your floor arrange the squares to your satisfaction, turn squares over and tape wrong sides together. You will have an individual rug of quality that has no relation to the price paid for the samples. — J.S.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Does any reader know how to remove scratches from a copertone refrigerator? I made the mistake of removing some paint spots from the refrigerator with a scouring pad. The cleaners and waxes I have used seem to make the scratches show even more. — BETTY.

Wide-ranging report from the grand jury

The Pettis County grand jury is now history. Its 45-page report was filed with Circuit Judge Frank Meyer last Saturday, the final day of its life. Arrests, as a result of the issuance of several indictments, will follow.

Events surrounding the Ozark Music Festival, which it was the jury's prime responsibility to investigate, are extensively covered in the report. The findings serve to re-emphasize the fact that this disaster was primarily the result of (1) misrepresentation by the promoters; and (2) poor legal acumen by state officials in the planning stages of the festival.

The grand jury is correct in pointing out that once it was underway, the rock festival could not have been stopped short of risking a blood bath. Those who spent any time on the scene of that lamentable event will agree with this appraisal.

A very interesting account of how the city of Sedalia was evidently beat out of some $1,500 in license fees by concessionaires at the rock festival is provided in the grand jury report. We would strongly second the suggestion that

A conservative view

CBS's defense news tilted toward doves

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The Institute for American Strategy last month released a thoughtful and thought-provoking study of the coverage given by the Columbia Broadcasting System in 1972-73 to news of national defense. The institute charges CBS News with imbalance, and the charge is well taken.

Kilpatrick

The evidence amassed by the institute is overwhelming. Under the direction of Ernest W. Lefever, a distinguished scholar in world affairs, a team of analysts undertook a meticulous examination of the CBS evening news. They isolated every reference to national security over a two-year period, studied the transcripts, and tabulated their findings.

American attitudes on defense may be classified roughly in terms of the hawk, the sparrow, and the dove. The hawk believes national defense efforts should be increased; the sparrow believes present levels are adequate; and the dove believes these levels should be reduced. As to Vietnam, the hawk defends U.S. involvement, the sparrow feels yes-and-no, and the dove deplors the whole thing.

Such classifications are fairly within the range of statistical analysis. The institute's study found that in 1972, CBS News gave 79 sentences to the hawk point of view, 774 to the sparrows, and 1,382 to the doves. The imbalance was even more glaring in coverage of Vietnam. The hawks got 25 sentences, the sparrows 493, and the doves 1,201.

The same imbalance was found in coverage of other news in the field of national security. CBS gave virtually no attention to the Soviet military build-up; its news editors sought out doves for interviews; most damning of all, the network's own reporters regularly expressed their own opinions in the guise of news. An analysis of 2,235 "viewpoint sentences" found that 416 originated with CBS newsmen; of these, 3.4 per cent inclined toward the hawks, 12.5 toward the sparrows, 84.1 to the doves.

In brief: "A consistent and careful viewer of the CBS evening news, with no other sources of military information, would have gained a strange and massively lopsided picture of our national defense issues and options. CBS News gave 17 times as much attention to views advocating that the U.S. government do substantially less in defense and national security than to views advocating that the government do more."

Richard S. Salant, president of CBS news, has responded to the institute's study with a request for more information on the methodology. He promises to take the institute's charges seriously and to examine the data. It is a reasonable reply.

So much for the institute's accusations and the network's initial response. Something more remains to be said on the nature of news and the task of editorial judgement. The institute complains repeatedly, for example, that CBS carried little about "the mission" of the Air Force, "the mission" of the Navy, and "the mission" of the Army. The institute objects that CBS ignored significant news of national security and gave time instead, on a given night, to such events as the trial of Angela Davis.

Well, the trouble is that "the mission" isn't news; and put to a choice between reporting Admiral Moorer on Soviet submarines and covering the trial of Angela Davis, 99 editors out of 100 would take the Davis trial. The Institute for American Strategy is obsessed with national defense — a useful obsession. But a thousand other outfits have a thousand other newsworthy obsessions: abortion, gun control, fluoridation, organic gardening, racial balance busing, women's rights, historic preservation. It is likely that every one of them could compile a statistical violation of the fairness doctrine.

On the record, CBS News evidently failed to meet requirements of the fairness doctrine in its coverage of national security news. But to some degree, fairness, like beauty, lies in the eye of the beholder. If Solomon himself were sitting in for Walter Cronkite, complaints would still be heard. In the news business, alas, that's the way it is.

Big bang

When Krakatoa, a small volcanic island between Sumatra and Java, exploded in 1883, the sound of that explosion was perhaps the loudest natural noise ever created. It was loud enough to be heard thousands of miles away in Japan.

Art Buchwald Hearing the tapes of wrath

WASHINGTON — I went over to the Watergate conspiracy trial the other day, and it was good to see all my old friends again — Bob Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, John Mitchell, Robert Mardian and Kenneth Parkinson. It was tape day, and the prosecution was playing White House tapes for the jury. Everyone in the courtroom was provided with a set of earphones, and all we had to do was sit back and relax and listen to how everyone was shafting each other.

Buchwald

It's a pity that all Americans can't hear the Nixon tapes. No matter what you read in the transcripts, nothing compares to listening to the voices themselves as they discuss ways and means of shutting off Watergate at the pass.

Having just seen "The Godfather" on television, I couldn't help comparing the Don Corleone family with the Don Watergate family. The first thing that occurred to me was that Marlon Brando as the Godfather spoke so much better English than Richard Nixon — and this despite the fact that Brando had cotton in his cheeks and was supposed to have been born in Sicily. Second, I couldn't help thinking that there was so much more honor in the Don Corleone family than there was in the Don Watergate family.

The Don Corleones lived by a code of sorts. While they did not hesitate to take care of people outside the family, they always protected each other. When you listen to the tapes, you have to conclude that in the Don Watergate family it was every man for himself. Although the Nixon lieutenants' primary concern was to protect their "Godfather," the tapes show their primary interest was to save themselves.

So what you hear through your earphones is the making of a conspiracy not only against the government but against each other. Haldeman and Ehrlichman are out to get John Mitchell; Nixon's out to get Colson; Colson's out to get John Dean, and Haldeman's out to get Ehrlichman. If nothing else, the Watergate people have given "obstruction of justice" a bad name.

The clearest tapes are the telephone conversations between Nixon and his aides. The thing that struck me the most about these is that, when Nixon was speaking on the phone, he always breathed heavily as if he was making an obscene call — which it now turns out he was.

Another observation you can make from the tapes is that nobody ever let the President of the United States say anything. Every time he started to talk he was interrupted by one of his aides. All they permitted him to do was occasionally repeat something that they had just told him. Marlon Brando would have never stood for this.

I don't want to carry this comparison between the Don Corleone and Don Watergate families too far. For one thing, the Don Corleones were so much smarter than the Don Watergates. You can't conceive of Marlon Brando's people setting up a tape system in his house. And you know even if they did, the Godfather of the film would have thrown out the machines after the feds were on him.

But we can't cry over Scotch tape. The tapes are there for the jury and a few privileged members of the press to hear. They make great listening, and my only regret is that so far the American public can't tune in on them. If they could, I assure you they would have a higher rating than "The Godfather." Hollywood writers just can't duplicate the duplicity of the Watergate gang. If they tried, nobody would believe it.

Sedalia is infested by a regular gang of sneak thieves and burglars. A number of them are from Kansas City, and they can be seen hanging around the city at all times of the day and night. They have been working this city up quite lively, and it is high time they were raided and driven out.

Today's thoughts

Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." — John 8:12.

"The hero is one who kindles a great light in the world, who sets up blazing torches in the dark streets of life for men to see by. The saint is the man who walks through the dark paths of the world, himself a light." — Felix Adler, American ethical reformer.

Imported peanut

The peanut, native to the Americas, was imported into Africa by Portuguese traders and returned again in the 18th and 19th centuries on ships transporting slaves. Primarily intended as food for the slaves during the long ocean crossing, the peanuts that were left over from these voyages were planted around the slave cabins. This was the beginning of one of the most important crops in the United States.

Merry-go-round

Nixon Florida home still getting funds

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Despite all the rhubarb over secret expenditures on former President Nixon's estates in Florida and California, federal money is still being poured into the Key Biscayne compound.

A team of General Services Administration (GSA) workmen are busily ripping out partitions and repairing walls in at least two of the buildings just as if Watergate never happened.

And seven Secret Service men are still putting around the premises on vague security details, even though the former President has not even visited Key Biscayne since he left office on Aug. 9.

When we approached the General Services Administration concerning the continued use of federal manpower and material for the Nixon home, a spokesman huffily denied any such activities.

But when my associate Bob Owens pointed out that, posing as a saddle-shod Florida tourist, he has observed the comings and goings of the government workmen, GSA conceded repair work was going on.

It was only fair to "restore" the homes of Nixon and other rented dwellings in the compound to their pre-presidential condition, the GSA said. One of the homes under repair is owned by Nixon crony Robert Abplanalp.

Actually, the government had already done considerable work on Abplanalp's home. While it was being used by the White House, it got a $1,667 paint job and other improvements.

The GSA said the new work would be completed by Christmas, although the negotiations to get compensation from Nixon for improvements on the Key Biscayne property may go on for months.

Still at issue, for instance, is whether the Nixon-designed "security fence," costing $66,314, and $4,786 worth of carnation hibiscus shrubs surrounding it will be paid for by the ex-president.

The Secret Service, meanwhile, has pulled out most of its detection equipment. The Coast Guard has phased out its five-year-old $2 million patrol of the Nixon beach area. And the Navy has removed the $20,267 shark net which had protected the waterfront swimming areas of Nixon and his friend Bebe Rebozo.

UNDIPLOMATIC SLIP: Rarely do American's envoys in rundown foreign capitals relax their stiff upper lips and criticize their hosts.

But a "Limited Official Use" cable in the State Department's file drawers bluntly reveals how U.S. Ambassador to Nigeria John Reinhardt regards his militarist hosts.

Apparently upset over a proposed junket to the Nigerian capital of Lagos by Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., Reinhardt wired the State Department that appointments with government leaders might be hard to line up because the Nigerians preferred fun to fidelity.

"Must state frankly that arranging Sunday meetings with FMG (Federal Military Government) officials will not be easy," the diplomat cabled, "most of whom cannot be budged to attend any weekend gathering which is remotely official."

Reinhardt then switched to the Javits' hotel reservations. "I am having some second thoughts about the adequacy of Ikoyi hotel accommodations, which are only ones available," he wrote. "Hence, I urge that Senator and Mrs. Javits stay at residence, where I believe I can arrange some informal gatherings with articulate FMG representatives and at the same time, hopefully provide a few amenities not otherwise available in Lagos."

Concludes the document wryly, "Assume that senator's seeming reluctance to spend two nights in Lagos stems from city's earned rating among the world's least inviting. However, we can guarantee some compensations for one eager to feel the African pulse which beats rapidly and strongly in Nigeria."

FUDDLE FACTORY: Sometimes Washington seems an enormous "Fuddle Factory" where everything goes wrong for the ordinary Americans the bureaucracy is supposed to serve.

For example, E. H. Weder, head of the Highland (Ill.) Manufacturing and Sales Co., had for years sold cellophane Easter grass, which was flammable. When the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) ordered him to stop, he dutifully complied.

At the cost of $950,000, he destroyed his flammable stocks and converted his machines to produce safe, nonflammable grass. But he and many of his employees had to work 16 hours a day to fill enough new grass orders to stave off bankruptcy.

Then, a few months ago, he saw unsafe flammable grass for sale in a drug store. To his bewilderment, he learned that the government had given the go-ahead to another manufacturer as long as the dangerous Easter grass was marked "Flammable."

Outraged, he called the FDA. It was all a $950,000 misunderstanding, he was assured. Weder's only recourse now is to sue the government, which he lacks the time and money to do.

In a letter to his sympathetic congressman, Rep. Phil Crane, R-Mich., Weder sounded the plaint of many small businessmen trapped inside Washington's "Fuddle Factory."

It is, he said, "persecution of small businesses by an unfeeling, stupid, cold, calculating, antibusiness bureaucracy."

The government goof almost destroyed his own life work and "the means of livelihood of hundreds of employees," he wrote.

Ann Landers

Ann's ironing advice doesn't hold crease

Dear Ann Landers: You really have got to be out of your mind. I refer to your comment to that woman who doesn't iron her sheets and towels. You called her "lazy."

I had an aunt who used to iron shoelaces, hairnets, dusting cloths, everything she could lay her hands on. Do you have a name for HER? We called her "squirrelly Sarah."

Haven't you ever heard of permanent-press sheets? Don't you know that towels are much fluffier when they come right out of the dryer or fresh from the clothesline? Then there's this business of conserving energy. Ironing uses a lot of electricity. Where's your sense of patriotism, not to mention economy?

I stopped ironing sheets six years ago, and I never did iron towels. Nobody in our house calls ME lazy. I also noted in your reply, you used the editorial "we." You said, "In our house we iron the sheets and towels." Annie dear, when was the last time YOU ironed anything? — Sensible In Midland.

Dear Sensible: Last night I ironed my husband's formal tie — but it's been quite a while since I ironed sheets or anything else. Now that I'm writing 365 columns a year and making about 100 speeches, I figure somebody else can do the laundry.

The word from the Landers Linen Room is as follows: Mrs. Washington irons the sheets. They are not permanent-press. As for towels, I'm willing to eat a large hunk of crow. Mrs. Washington folds the towels when she takes them out of the dryer. She says ironing is not necessary.

My apologies for calling the woman "lazy." I should have done some research instead of relying on my own experience in the laundry room which goes back 25 years.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a kid who is driving me crazy. He is two-and-a-half years old, and runs me ragged from morning till night.

He is up at 5:00 a.m. every day even though I sometimes let him run around until 10:30 at night, hoping he'll get worn out and sleep later in the morning. It doesn't work. I have become so desperate for sleep that I've hired a sitter in the afternoon, taken a pillow and blanket and driven out to the woods so I can take a two-hour nap in the car.

How long will this last? I am 26 years old and have lost 16 pounds in eight months. Because I am always so exhausted I can't have a decent social life and even our sex life has gone to hell. My husband is beginning to dislike the child and so am I.

A few months ago I took the boy to a doctor. He said the child has a lot of energy and I should just "put up with it." Many of my friends have small children and none of them have this problem.

Please, Ann, give me some help before I go batty or drop dead of exhaustion. — Newbury Park Cadaver.

Dear N.P.: Take your child to another doctor and ask that he be tested. From your description the boy sounds hyperkinetic. There are drugs to control this problem. They have worked wonders, not only for the wall-climbing child but for the bleary-eyed mother. Good luck to you, dear, and please let me know how you get along.

Third straight win

Roadrunners romp in easy style over SWBC, 102-77

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

By the time Shelly Brown had canned his fifth straight bucket with about 11 and one-half minutes to go in the game Monday night, Coach Bill Barton's worries were over.

"I was scared to death that we would have a let-down after winning the Keokuk Classic over the weekend," said Barton Monday afternoon looking ahead to the game that night against Southwest Baptist's junior varsity.

The victory was an easy one, 102-77. "We needed something like this," Barton commented in his post-game interview.

"We were tired, I could tell that. We seemed to move in second gear a good portion of the game," he added.

"If we'd had to play hard tonight, we would have been in real trouble," said Barton, who had just witnessed his State Fair Community College Roadrunners win their third in a row, boosting the team's mark to 3-2.

Brown's performance, which matched his best of the year in the scoring column with 18 points, was only one of a number of outstanding individual efforts, despite the fact that the team was tired as Barton said.

Brown, held to only four points in the opening half, fired up the Roadrunners' second-half thrust that put the game out of reach.

The 6-1 freshman guard from St. Louis McKinley gunned in five unanswered baskets between the 13:08 and 11:16 marks of the second half, which boosted the Roadrunners' lead to 28 points, 76-48.

Brown was only part of the story.

There was reserve forward Ray Steele, Denver, Colo., who wound up with 16 points. Averaging well over a point per minute, Steele came in with just over six minutes to go in the first half. He went into the dressing room at the intermission with 10 points. He wound up with 16 for the night, bettering by seven his season's high.

Then there was reserve guard Glyn "Bugger" Bennett, who entered the game with Steele in the first half. He pumped in six, key first-half points and helped put down a mild Bearcats' rally that pulled SWBC within six points with 4:42 showing.

There was also the board play of 6-9 sophomore center Stan McNeill and freshman forward Lyonell Hardin (6-7). The two combined for almost half of State Fair's 49 team rebounds. McNeill wound up with 14, while Hardin pulled down 10.

Hardin also led the team in scoring with 21 points; McNeill scored 16.

In all, everyone got into the scoring act, with exception of Russell Billington, a reserve guard who entered the game with just over three minutes to go.

But probably one of the most satisfying facts for Barton was Brown's performance.

Barton said Monday afternoon, "Brown needs to have a good game tonight."

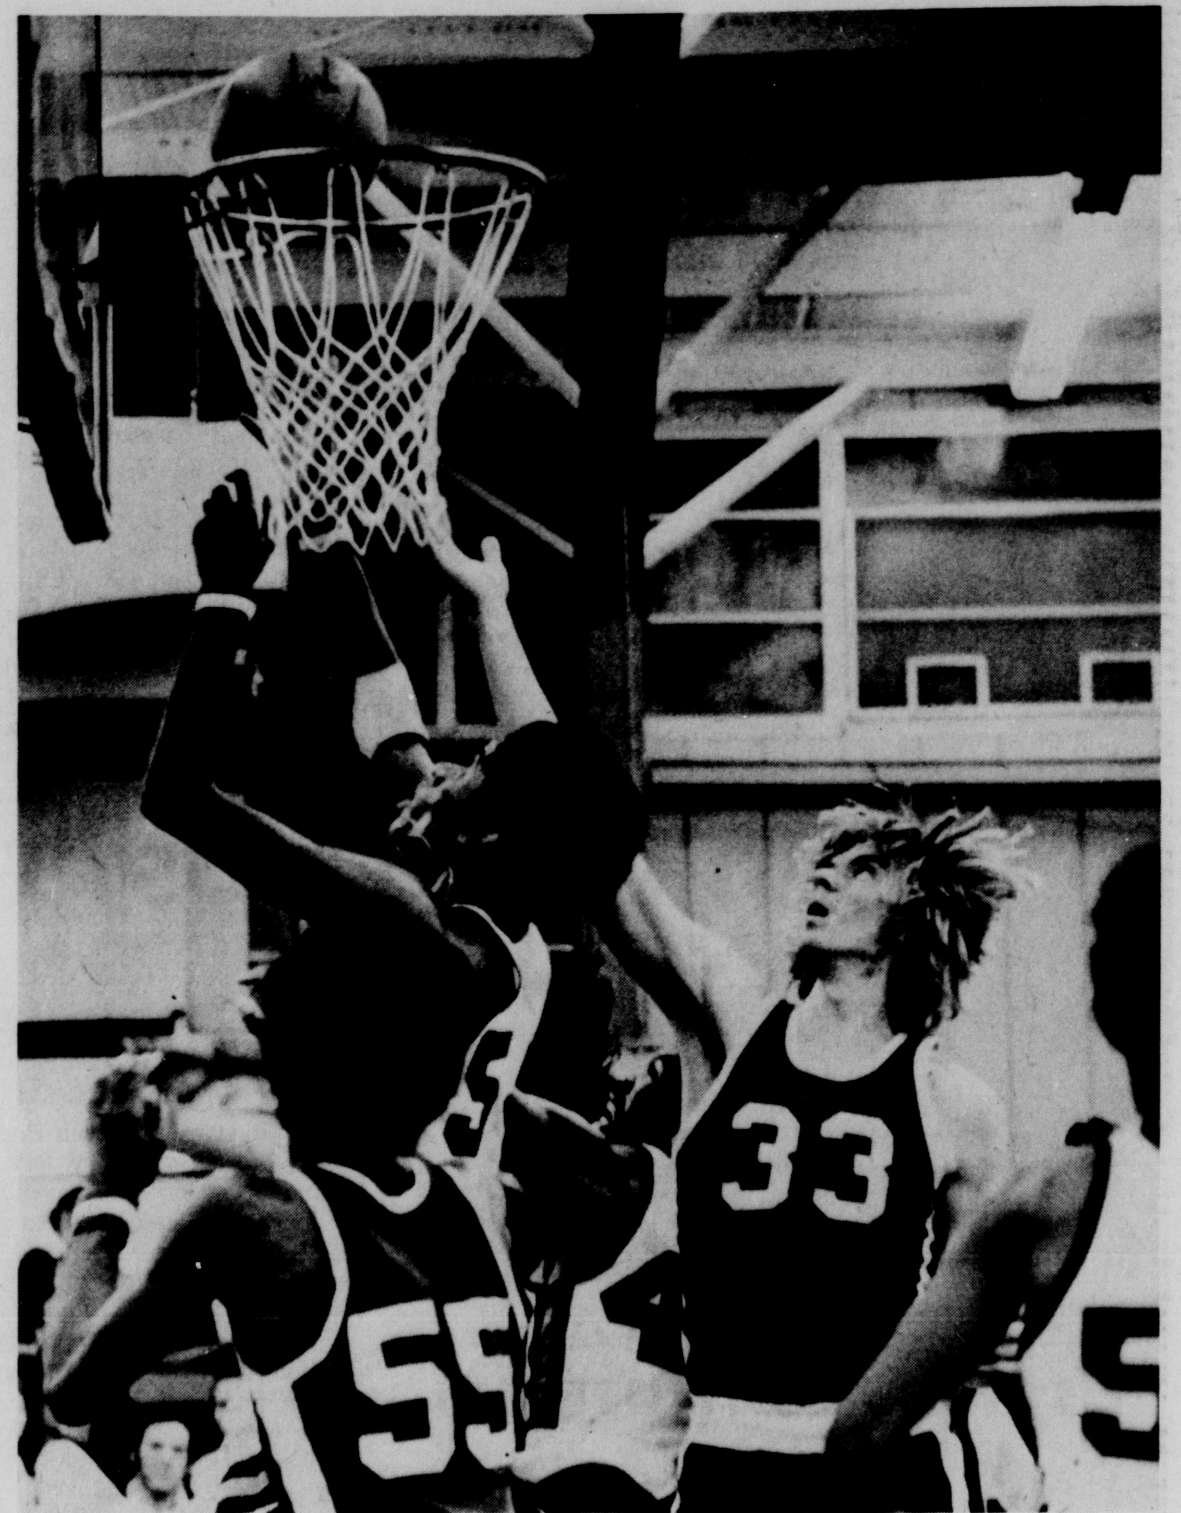

The contest was close only early. Mark Taylor, a 6-7 sophomore from Divernon, Ill., and who led everyone with 24 points, netted his third in a row with 14:25 showing in the first half to pull SWBC within two, 14-12. That was as close as the Bearcats got the rest of the game.

"We set our goal for this week to win three straight," said Barton, adding, "... We've got two more to go."

That wish won't come easy, since the Roadrunners open play in their own classic tourney Friday at 9 p.m. against a vastly improved East Central Junior College (Union, Mo.) squad. The winner and loser of that game will take on the winner and loser respectively of the Southeastern Iowa-Crowder College game in Saturday's championship and consolation games.

Scoring

State Fair (102) — Lyonell Hardin 21, Shelly Brown 18, Stan McNeill 16, Ray Steele 16, Jerry Bybee 8, Bob Green 8, Charles Johnson 6, Glyn Bennett 6, Mike Falls 2, Harold Hampton 1.
Southwest Baptist J. V. (77) — Mark Taylor 24, John Logan 22, Joe Bill Peters 10, Ronnie Robinson 8, Jeff Schnakenberg 7, Dave Sullins 4, Kip Brown 2.
State Fair 54 48-102
Southwest Baptist 42 35-77

Terry Bradshaw leads Pittsburgh past Saints

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "If I'd been O.J. Simpson, I'd have scored a couple more," said Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw after he led the Steelers to a 28-7 runaway victory over the New Orleans Saints in Monday night's National Football League game.

Simpson, star running back of the Buffalo Bills, has had better nights than the blond quarterback had against the Saints Monday. But Bradshaw's performance was more than sufficient, netting 99 yards rushing — including a touchdown — and 80 yards and two more touchdowns through the air.

The fourth Steeler touchdown came on a 64-yard punt return by Lynn Swann.

"The Saints' coverage was really excellent, but they opened some huge lanes," he said in the noisy, steamy dressing room. "You saw it. You could have run for a hundred yards yourself."

"I would have liked to have thrown the ball a little better, but our running game was going, and I wasn't about to disturb a good thing."

Bradshaw hit eight of 19 with two interceptions.

Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll wouldn't commit himself to ending the game of musical quarterbacks he's been playing all season, but he did praise Bradshaw's performance.

"Bradshaw played a heck of a fine game," Noll said.

Noll has rotated quarterback chores among Bradshaw, Joe Gilliam and Terry Hanratty, saying he was waiting for a leader to emerge and "take the bull by the horns."

Bradshaw threw 31 yards to Frank Lewis for a first-quarter score, ran 18 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter and tossed one yard to Larry Brown for a third-period marker.

Swann's 64-yard scamper also came in the third period.

Big 8 signs four-year pact with Orange Bowl

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Beginning next year and continuing through 1978 the Big Eight Conference football champion automatically goes to the Orange Bowl New Year's Day in Miami.

But in the case of a conference tie, the Big Eight is unlikely to suffer the intra-league bitterness experienced by Big Ten powers Michigan and Ohio State in their league's contract with the Rose Bowl, Big Eight Commissioner Chuck Neinas said Monday.

The Big Eight's contract with the Orange Bowl provides that in case of a tie, the Orange Bowl Selection Committee, not the conference athletic directors, decides which team gets the invitation.

Ohio State and Michigan have tied for the Big Ten crown the past two years. Ohio State has triumphed in each instance in secret balloting by the athletic directors. The procedure has triggered widespread bitterness, particularly among Michigan followers who point out that their team has compiled a better over-all record the past three years while Ohio State has gone to the Rose Bowl.

"The Orange Bowl Committee is composed in whole of about 150 to 200 people," Neinas said. "They have various committees assigned to do certain things, such as a hospitality committee, a team selection committee, an advisory committee."

Another point in the Big Eight's favor is the stipulation that any conference school can accept a postseason invitation.

This year's Big Eight champion, No. 1 ranked Oklahoma, is barred from post-season competition because of a two-year probation levied for recruiting violation. The Sooners are eligible for post-season invitations next year, but cannot appear on television through the regular season.

"This means that if Oklahoma repeats as conference champion next year, they will play in the Orange Bowl," Neinas said.

Even though the Orange Bowl Committee would take the team selection out of the conference's hands in case of a tie, there still could be controversy, assuming the committee would prefer the most attractive team available.

Rebels doormat status a thing of the past

There were many years of basketball futility for Ken Dyson and the East Central Junior College Rebels. But those are things of the past and Dyson is not concerned with what has happened. He's concerned about 1974-75, a season that may well see the Rebels emerge as a top contender for the eastern crown of Region XVI.

East Central used to be the doormat of the eastern side of Missouri. No more.

"We have better recruiting, a new facility and what I think is a good approach concerning our program," said Dyson, whose Rebels are pitted against State Fair Community College in the opening round of the State Fair Classic this weekend on the Missouri State Fairgrounds.

"We have a some strong players back from last year and a good group of freshmen that I feel will be a big asset to us later in the season," Dyson added.

East Central, which lost by only eight points to Belleville, Ill., Area Junior College in Saturday night's championship game of the Midwest Junior College Conference Tournament, will take its glittering 4-1 record against the Roadrunners in Friday night's second game of the twinbill at 9 p.m.

That game will follow a first-round contest between Crowder College (Neosho, Mo.) and Southeastern Iowa (Keokuk).

The Friday night winners will tangle for the championship Saturday. The first-round losers meet also on Saturday for the third-place title.

Dennis Thompson and Mark Atkinson, Dyson's starters in back court last season, are back. Both have good size; Thompson goes 6-2, while Atkinson is 6-0.

The Rebels' strength is inside, where 6-7½ center Robert Mason, 6-4 Clarence Drayden, 6-4 Tom Fritz and 6-2 Ron Robinson handle most of the responsibilities.

And for added bench strength, Dyson has 6-7 Pittsburgh, Pa., freshman Dana Clark on the bench.

"We think we have a good rebounding club with Mason and Drayden," Dyson said Monday morning. Drayden is a sophomore from Shreveport, La., and Mason is a sophomore transfer student from Western Illinois.

Friday's game could shape up as a battle of two teams' inside attacks. Unless East Central uses a zone, Mason will go against 6-9 State Fair center Stan McNeill, while Drayden may be matched against State Fair's leading scorer Charles Johnson.

The whole key could be the mis-match in size at the other forward spot, which is held down by talented front-liner Lyonell Hardin, who stand 6-7.

"They might just play us a zone," said Bill Barton, SFCC coach.

"We're going to spend more time on a zone offense during practices this week," he said.

Prior to Saturday night's loss to Belleville, the Rebels opened the season with consecutive wins over Linn Tech, St. Louis Boys Club, Meramec and Lewis and Clark Community College of Godfrey, Ill.

Memorial, Lebanon advance in tourney

(Democrat-Capital Service)

BUFFALO — William Jackson and Notie Pate combined for 47 points here Monday night and led top-seeded Joplin Memorial to a 115-34 win over the Buffalo Bisons junior varsity in first-round action of the Buffalo Invitational Basketball tournament.

Jackson poured in 25 points, while Pate followed with 22.

In the night's only other game, Lebanon, seeded fourth, dumped fifth-seeded Springfield Central, 59-46, behind the balanced scoring of Chris Grace (16), Bruce Meckem (10) and Phil Montgomery (10).

Central's Joey Johnson took game honors with his 20-point performance.

The balance of the first-round action will be completed tonight, when third-seeded Sedalia Smith-Cotton faces the host Bisons. Macks Creek meets second-seeded Springfield Parkview.

Scoring

Joplin Memorial (115) — Adams 14, Fowler 6, Dean 4, Pate 22, Hill

Lebanon (59) — Appling 9, Meckem 10, Knapp 5, Call 4, Grace 16, Montgomery 10, Bass 2, Kile 3.
Springfield Central (46) — Johnson 20, Stevens 6, Lucas 12, Scott 2, Carbow 2, Kern 2, Hawkins 2.

Site set for NAIA Division II finals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Texas Lutheran will host Missouri Valley in the Division II football championship of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, the NAIA said Monday.

The game will be played at 1 p.m. Dec. 7 at Matador Stadium in Seguin, Tex.

Texas Lutheran is 10-0 for the season and was ranked No. 1 in NAIA Division II throughout the season. Missouri Valley finished at 10-0-1 and in fourth spot in the ratings.

Sooners showing keeps them on top

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — No one should know more about the Oklahoma Sooners than Barry Switzer, but the Sooners coach says that even he was surprised by his team's offensive output in Saturday's 28-14 victory over Nebraska.

Although the top-ranked Sooners had to score 21 points in the final 20 minutes for the margin of victory, they moved the ball consistently against a fine Nebraska defense, gaining 482 yards on the ground.

The showing kept the mighty Sooners in the No. 1 position in this week's Associated Press rankings, released Monday.

Oklahoma will seek to extend college football's longest winning streak to 20 games this Saturday against arch-rival Oklahoma State. The game will end the season for the Sooners, since they are barred from bowl play because of an NCAA probation.

Switzer said Monday he thinks the victory over Nebraska, plus Michigan's 14-12 loss to Ohio State, bolsters the Sooners' national title hopes.

"If 50 million people could have seen us play Nebraska, I would feel like they would have to be impressed with our football team," Switzer said. "I was certainly impressed because I have tremendous respect for Nebraska. I know what kind of football team they are."

The Sooners retained their top ranking by garnering 49 first-place votes and 1,134 points to lead Alabama, the only other unbeaten and untied major college football team. Alabama got 10 first place votes and 1,037 points.

Ohio State held third with 968 points, Michigan was fourth with 795 and Notre Dame fifth with 641. Southern California, Auburn, Texas A&M, Nebraska and Penn State rounded out the Top Ten.

The remainder of the rankings showed Maryland, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Michigan State, Houston, Baylor, Texas, Pitt, Wisconsin and Brigham Young.

Switzer said Oklahoma was in a better shape now than last year when it was ranked second at the end of the regular season, but fell to third after the bowl games. Notre Dame won the championship after a Sugar Bowl victory over Alabama.

"We were in a different situation last year," Switzer said. "We were the second team at that time. And ABC, the Sugar Bowl and the press — you people produced a national championship game on New Year's Day. It was an extravaganza. It happened that the team that won that was going to be the national champion."

Alabama and once-beaten and fifth-ranked Notre Dame will be meeting in the Orange Bowl. But the Irish still must play Southern California and Alabama has a Nov. 29 date with Auburn.

Mentioning Alabama's close call with Florida State and Notre Dame's trouble with Navy, Switzer said, "I don't see anyway they can make the Orange Bowl into a national championship affair."

"When we have played a close game, it's been against a team that can win a national championship — a Texas, a Nebraska. I feel like in the big ball games we've won and played well."

"But you don't know what's liable to happen. A lot of people may forget us by the time Jan. 2 rolls around. We'll try not to allow that to happen."

A.L. rookie nod to Mike Hargrove

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Six years ago, the odds probably were greater that Mike Hargrove would be a star in the National Football League or the National Basketball Association than the American League Rookie of the Year.

It wasn't that he was such a promising football or basketball player, but more that his baseball background wasn't in the mold of a major league star.

However, it's not surprising that Hargrove was named Monday as the top AL rookie of 1974. He hit .323 as a first baseman-designated hitter and was a vital member of a Texas Ranger team that jumped from last-place jokes to pennant-contending respectability in one year.

"I try to figure out how it happened, but I can't," says Hargrove. "I considered going to TCU on a football scholarship after high school. If I had done that, I probably would be out coaching somewhere now."

Hargrove was a football and basketball standout at Perryton

High School in the Texas Panhandle in the 1960s. He might have starred in baseball, too, if the school had fielded a team.

"I asked my coach why we didn't play baseball at school and he said it was too cold," says Hargrove. "I've heard talk they might start playing baseball there, but I doubt it."

Hargrove said he had some success in Little League and American Legion baseball, but his experience had been limited to some 20 games a year.

When he went to North-eastern State College in Oklahoma, his plans were to play only basketball and football, but his father persuaded him to go out for baseball, too.

His college football career lasted one year and he played basketball for two years, but Hargrove kept hitting baseballs for four years.

His college baseball performance was good but not eye-opening and he was picked by the Rangers in the 25th round of the 1972 baseball draft after some 500 other players were chosen.

Hargrove opened some eyes in 1973 when he hit .351 at Gastonia in the Class A Carolinas League, but few players make the jump from there to the big leagues.

"I wasn't invited to spring training until about two weeks before it started," he said. "I had no idea that I would be invited and it never entered my mind that would make the team. I thought Billy Martin just wanted to see what he had in the minor leagues."

Hargrove used injuries to regular first baseman Jim

Spencer as a springboard to playing time in the early going, but it was a smooth batting stroke a bundle of line drives that kept him in the line-up.

His average stayed in the .360 range for much of the summer before tailing off to the .320 level at the end.

The 25-year-old left-hander says he has no fear of the so-called sophomore jinx, because "I believe it happens when a rookie has a good year and gets complacent and I'm not gonna let that happen."

Gibson quits post at Kansas State

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Vince Gibson, who promised Kansas State rooters in 1967 that with a little Purple Pride, "we gonna win," quit the head football coaching post Monday.

Gibson left behind a 33-52 record, less than the winning percentage demanded by his sternest critics among K-State alumni.

"I feel by my leaving we can get everybody united and everybody backing our program and we'll have a chance to do well," Gibson said Monday night from Pittsburg, Kan., where he had a speaking engagement. "I think these kids deserve to go to a bowl game and they've got good people. And the only way they're going to do it is to fill that stadium and let people know they care about them and get people behind them."

Ernie Barrett, K-State athletic director, said the resignation was effective immediately. "I feel there is no one who could have done the job for Kansas State that Vince Gibson has done," Barrett said. "I firmly believe that he is going to be a difficult man to replace."

Gibson, 41, came to Kansas State from Tennessee, where he was defensive co-ordinator under Doug Dickey for three years. He succeeded Doug Weaver, whose record for seven years at K-State was 8-60-1.

The Alabamian's drawl and his fiery enthusiasm delighted Manhattan folk and alumni throughout Big Eight Conference country. His call for "prad" in Purple placed primacy around here on such drinks as "purple passion" and purple-colored beer.

Purple Pride peaked under Gibson in 1970—the only winning season he enjoyed—when K-State finished second in the conference and recorded an over-all record of 6-5.

Gremlins managed a 36-all deadlock at the end of three periods.

The low-scoring fourth quarter saw both teams combine for only 14 total points. Unfortunately for Jennewein and the Grems, who travel to Jefferson City Friday night for a non-conference game with Helias, the Saints scored eight, which was enough for the victory.

Rick Weller scored 16 points to capture game honors. Mark Register followed with 10. John Wolfe was the leading point producer for the Saints with 12.

The Gremlins also lost the junior varsity contest, 31-27. Brad Nicholson of Sacred Heart was the top scorer with 10.

(Democrat-Capitol Service)
CONCORDIA — St. Paul's College High won a low-scoring, non-league game here Monday night over Sedalia Sacred Heart, 44-42.

"We didn't fast break the way we should have," said Sacred Heart head coach Tom Jennewein of his team's fifth loss in seven games.

"We got the ball off the boards OK, I thought, but from there it wasn't what I like our break to be," he added.

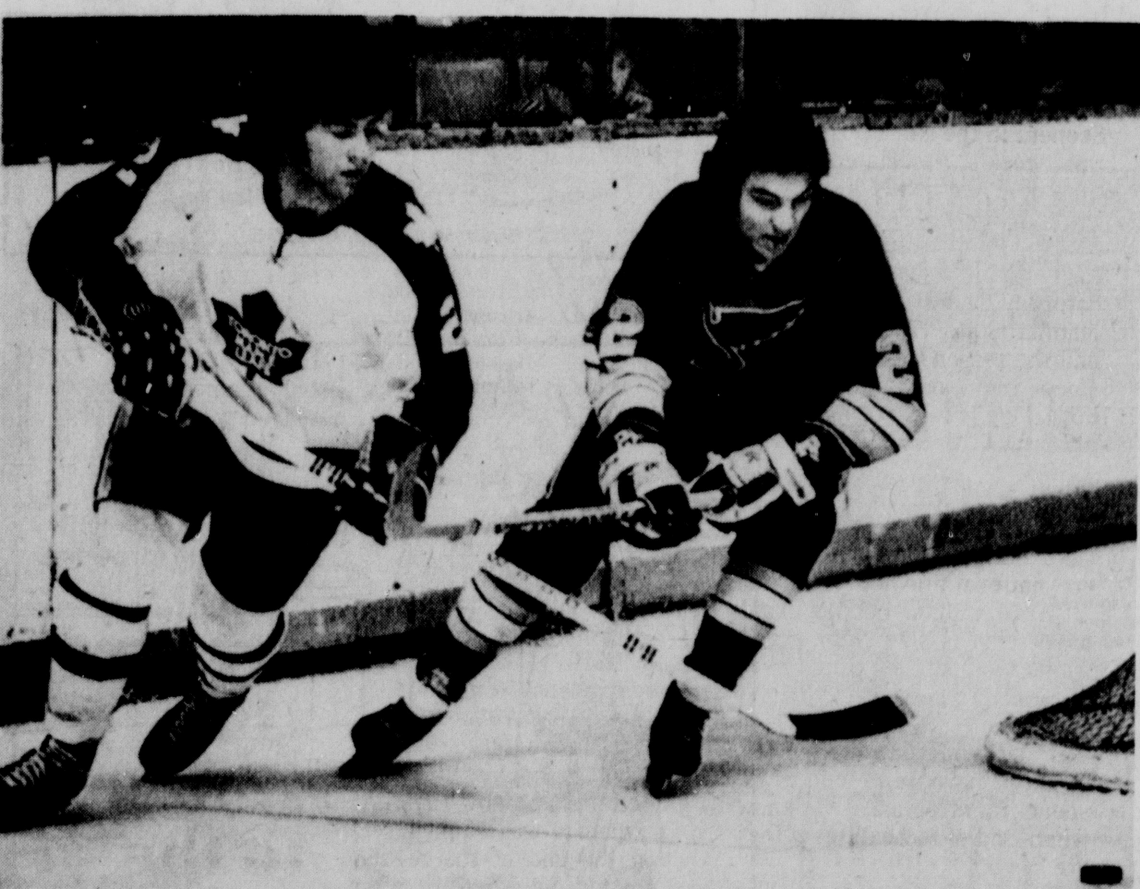

"We just made too many mistakes," he concluded.

The Gremlins met their biggest problems at the free throw line, converting on only four of 12 attempts — 33 per cent.

"It's the third time this season we've lost as a direct result of our free throw shooting," the first-year mentor commented.

St. Paul's hit eight of their 14 charity shots, which proved to be the difference.

St. Paul's was up one at the intermission, 25-24, but the Unger's 3rd-period goal earns 2-2 tie for Blues

TORONTO (AP) — It was only a 2-2 tie but to hear the Toronto Maple Leafs tell it, it sounded like a victory.

The slumping Leafs, after four straight National Hockey League losses, had a 2-1 lead going into the third period Monday night; but Garry Unger's second goal of the game for St. Louis earned the Blues the tie.

"But we got a point tonight and we're set to go now," said Eddie Shack, who was just as enthusiastic on the ice, throwing his weight around and delighting the 16,338 fans in the only NHL game played Monday.

"It's been a long slump, but I think we're out of it now," said Leaf Coach Red Kelly.

also sounding optimistic although he saw defenseman Ian Turnbull sidelined for six weeks with pulled knee ligaments in a collision with the St. Louis goal post. Toronto already has defenseman Borge Salming sidelined with a foot injury.

"I thought we looked much better tonight," said Kelly. "One point is a big point for us the way we have been going. It's been a long time since we've given up only two goals."

The Leafs could have had a victory but the long slump has made them jittery and there were a number of missed scoring chances, such as the time Ron Ellis had an open net to shoot at with Blues' goalie John Davidson sprawled on the ice. Ellis's shot went over the net.

Toronto got one of its best performances this season from goalie Doug Favell, who stepped 34 shots, while Davidson made 33 saves.

Unger opened the scoring early in the first period and Toronto's Blaine Stoughton tied it up two minutes later. Darryl Sittler's second-period goal put the Leafs in front but Unger got his second of the night and eighth of the season on a power play late in the third period.

There were no games scheduled in the World Hockey Association Monday night.

Non-league games head Kaysinger cage schedule

All of tonight's action on the Kaysinger Conference basketball card is non-league.

The highlight game of the evening is a rematch between last year's finalists in the Windsor Class A Regional Tournament, Smithton and Montrose.

Smithton's 64-51 victory over the Bluejays in the regional championship game was a springboard for the Tigers to the state tournament, where they wound up third.

Although Smithton is minus its powerful inside attack of a year ago, two returning starters — Gene Anderson and Martin White — have guided the Tigers to a 3-2 record so far this season.

In other non-conference action, Lincoln will venture to Windsor to take on a Greyhound squad that dealt Cole Camp its first setback of the season last week. Northwest meets its second I-70 Conference opponent in as many games at Concordia. Osage, which upended highly-touted Eldon last week, plays host to Stover, the league-leader in the Kaysinger loop. California travels to Warsaw and LaMonte is at Bunceton.

Tuesday's games are the final encounters for Kaysinger Conference teams before the Thanksgiving break.

One game is set for Friday night in Jefferson City, where the Sacred Heart Gremlins meet the Helias Crusaders.

GREEN RIDGE — Lincoln posted a volleyball-basketball sweep here Monday night in junior high school action.

In the boys basketball tilt, the Cardinals won, 40-21; Monte Young scored 12 for Lincoln. Top honors for Green Ridge went to Casey Jones, who netted nine.

In the girls volleyball division, the Cardinals won in straight sets, 15-13, 15-10.

In other junior high school action, Cole Camp whipped LaMonte, 47-35. Jerry Robinson and Steve Case led the winners with 26 and 13 points respectively. LaMonte's Tommy Brooks topped the losers with eight.

The league championship trophy will be presented to the team, as well as individual trophies to each team member.

The night's main event is a tag team battle between the Interns, and Mike George and Ted Oates. The ring will be fenced to keep the wrestlers inside.

In other matches, the Interns manager, Ken Ramey, will take on television announcer Bill Kersten in a six-round boxing feature; Bobby Jagers will face Rod Piper in the special event, while the opener pits The Viking against Bob Orton.

Friday's games — Sedalia Sacred Heart at Jefferson City Helias.

Quick action on Zarb nomination is likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Interior Committee appears ready to act quickly and favorably on President Ford's nomination of Frank G. Zarb to head the Federal Energy Administration.

"We've had good relations up here with Zarb," chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Monday. "There's no question about his professional ability."

Jackson added that "unless something unforeseen happens," Zarb would be confirmed by the Senate before the end of the year.

Andrew E. Gibson, Ford's first choice for the job, was forced to withdraw after disclosure of an $880,000 salary settlement from an oil shipping firm he once headed. Zarb also comes from a petroleum background. He formerly worked for Cities Service.

In announcing Zarb's nomination, the White House said Zarb had passed all his FBI checks and security clearances as well as conflict-of-interest probes.

Sen. Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming, the committee's second ranking Republican, called the 39-year-old Zarb "an excellent nomination," although he said he has never had any personal dealings with Zarb. The nominee currently is the associate director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Other committee members, including Sens. J. Bennett Johnston, Jr., D-La., and James Abourezk, D-S.D., declined comment, saying they didn't know enough about the nominee.

The staff member added that hearings probably would be held next week and would take only one day to complete.

Zarb, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., came to Washington in 1971 to join the Nixon administration as an assistant secretary of labor.

If confirmed, Zarb would succeed John C. Sawhill, who resigned under pressure in a dispute over energy policy. Sawhill had been the chief administration proponent of energy conservation and reportedly had angered the President with his statements favoring a tax increase on gasoline.

Sawhill has been continuing to serve as head of FEA until a successor can be confirmed.

After his work for Cities Service, Zarb entered Wall Street and was executive vice president and chairman of the executive committee of Hayden Stone, Inc., a New York brokerage firm, before joining the Nixon administration in 1971.

Four area chiropractors were delegates to the Annual Homecoming of the Cleveland Chiropractic College of Kansas City over the weekend.

Attending were Doctors Louis Mills, Reinhold Fischer and Joseph Rodewald, all of Sedalia, and Dr. Uel E. Clear, Green Ridge.

During the two-day meeting the doctors heard from Dr. James A. Mertz, vice-president of the American College of Roentgenologists, and other doctors and professors of chiropractic-related fields. Also held were an alumni luncheon and the graduation of chiropractic doctors.

Report praises

Campbell

The report of the Pettis County grand jury includes high praise for Dr. A. J. Campbell, who was in charge of the medical facilities at the Ozark Music Festival, July 19-21.

Dr. Campbell assembled a larger staff than was originally planned for the festival after hearing rumors of what was expected, the report states. This was over the objections of festival promoters, it adds.

"Professionalism is the word that best described Dr. Campbell's handling of the medical arrangements until the conclusion of the Festival," states the grand jury report. "This becomes more significant when reports show that over 2,500 persons were treated in the emergency room at the Fairgrounds."

The group of doctors and nurses assembled by Dr. Campbell, including specialists in drug overdose treatment, proved capable of coping "with most every contingency," says the report.

"In short, it is the opinion of the Grand Jury from testimony concerning medical patients that at least 200 persons acutely affected could have died at the Festival, if there was not an adequate staff available with professional dedication," the report reads.

There was only one death at the festival due to an overdose of drugs.

Rotarians preview film coming here

The Rev. James Kane, pastor of the Maplewood Church, presented a preview of the film, "Time to Run," from advance film clips, to members of the Sedalia Rotary Club on Monday noon at Ramada Inn. The film will be shown at the Fox Theatre from December 4th through the 10th. Because it deals with the problems of modern home life, it has been endorsed by many church groups in Sedalia.

In a brief talk following the presentation of the film clips, Mr. Kane stressed the need for families to get back to a new life style with all members of the family working together and sharing family problems. The speaker was introduced by Ewing Gibson.

In other club activity, Bill Arnold, program chairman, presented Miss Amanda Wade, of Sweet Springs, who is the social service director of the head start program working out of the regional office at Corder, Mo. She was accompanied to the meeting by Mrs. Shirley Merk, Sedalia, who is locally identified with the Head Start program.

Miss Wade called attention to the need for a chain link fence at the Anthony Buckner Housing Development so the twenty children in the head start program there could have a safe place to play. She presented pictures of playground equipment which would be donated and erected when the playground area has been fenced. The chain link fence will cost $683 and to date $254 has been contributed toward the project.

People in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will welcome his high school football teammates to the White House on Thursday for a Thanksgiving Day brunch.

The men who played football with Ford in Grand Rapids, Mich., in the 1930s traditionally get together on Thanksgiving. This year was Ford's turn to host the group.

Later in the day, the President, Mrs. Ford and their daughter Susan will sit down to a traditional turkey dinner. The Fords' three sons are not expected to come home for the holiday, a White House spokesman said.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Wayne Osmond of the singing Osmond Brothers will be married in Salt Lake City on Dec. 13 to the reigning Miss Utah, Kathryn White.

It will be the third wedding for an Osmond in the past 16 months. Alan, the oldest brother in the group, married Suzanne Pinegar last summer, and Merrill married Mary Carlson in September 1973.

The ceremony will be in the Bill Hopkins, club president, introduced Master Sergeant James Wilkins, Staff Sergeant James Mowery, and Airman First Class Willett Cleveland, all of Whiteman Air Force Base who were earlier selected as Airmen of the Quarter at Whiteman. They were presented with plaques in honor of their recognition. The award plaques were given jointly by the Rotary Club and the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and were presented by Robert Beykirch. The honorees were accompanied to the meeting by their wives.

Louis Walch introduced Darrell Olsen as a new member of the club. Olsen is general manager of Ramada Inn. Mrs. Olsen was present and introduced.

Hopkins appointed Bill Gogerty chairman of volunteers to ring the kettle bells for the Salvation Army on Friday, December 13, and announced the annual Rotary Christmas Party will be held on Monday evening, December 9, at Holiday Inn.

Guests introduced by Verl Schnepf were Rotarian William Steinbrueck, St. Louis; Rotarian Earl Uhler, Warrensburg; Rotarian Don Newport, Salem, Oregon; Dave Harlan, New Orleans, a guest of his grandfather, A. J. Harlan; Dr. Wayne Clark, Belleville, Ill., with Fred Davis; Dahl Walker, St. Louis, guest of Ron Shuler and student guests Greg Beykirch and Mark Eschbacher, of Sacred Heart High School.

Simon not optimistic on current recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon says the United States may be facing the longest recession since World War II and does not rule out that it also could be the worst.

"It might be longer than any of the recessions we've experienced since World War II, but it's way too early to tell whether it will be more severe," Simon said in an interview Monday.

The longest of the five post-war recessions extended for 13 months, from July 1953 to August 1954. The last recession extended 12 months, from November 1969 to November 1970.

Simon said the nation's unemployment rate — now 6 per cent of the labor force — will hit 7 per cent by late spring, and indicated he would not be surprised if it went higher.

The nation's worst unemployment in the postwar period was 7.9 per cent during the recession of late 1948 and 1949.

"Forecasting is a precarious business, but that isn't presently in our forecast," Simon said when asked if the jobless rate might go as high as 7.9 per cent in the current recession. Some private economic forecasts have been predicting an 8 per cent jobless rate.

He said the economy, which has been declining all year, will continue to decline through the first quarter of 1975, and then level off.

"We still forecast that by the summer of 1975 there will be an upturn," he said.

The over-all decline in the value of the nation's economic output, as measured by the gross national product, will exceed the decline of 1.5 per cent during the 1969-1970 recession, Simon said.

He said it would be "too early to tell" whether it will plunge below 3.9 per cent, which was the record postwar economic decline in the recession of 1953 and 1954.

But Simon argued that the current recession is not much worse than the administration had anticipated at the time it drew up its economic program in October, although he said the outlook is being complicated by the coal strike.

He said the coal strike will "show a sharper slowdown" in the economy.

In pointing out that the economic decline was anticipated, Simon was arguing that the Ford economic program is adequate to deal with recession as well as inflation and does not need to be changed.

Discussions on limiting black enlistments noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's equal opportunity chief says there has been persistent talk at policy levels about limiting the number of blacks in the armed services.

H. Minton Francis, deputy assistant secretary of defense, called this talk a "gratuitous insult" to American blacks.

"Blacks have willingly laid down their lives for this nation in the desperate hope that, by such sacrifices, they could gain a fair share of the benefits of being Americans," Francis said in an interview.

He said that talk about restricting black enlistments "has been prevalent" principally in the Army and Marine Corps.

Without naming any military or civilian officials, Francis said "It is at the level of policy formulation" that these discussions occur.

Secretary of the Army Howard H. Callaway has said repeatedly that he is opposed to any racial quotas in recruiting.

But Callaway said earlier this month that he wants to "broaden the representation of volunteers" and has ordered increased recruiting efforts outside the cities.

The Army has been especially sensitive to criticism by opponents of the all-volunteer concept who claim it will result in a disproportionately black force.

In the months immediately after draft authority expired last year, new black enlistments in the Army rose as high as 35 per cent of the total.

Defense officials calculate that about 11 per cent of military age American males are black.

Black enlistments remain relatively high, registering 22 per cent for the armed services as a whole during the July-September quarter. The Army reported 28 per cent, the Marine Corps 20 per cent, the Air Force 18 per cent and the Navy 14 per cent.

Francis noted that some officials who discuss limiting black enlistments say they are worried about "the possibility of disproportionate casualties in time of war." But Francis, who is black, a West Point graduate, and a veteran of 20 years in the Army indicated he feels this is a cover for other reasons.

State agricultural exports increase

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—The value of Missouri agricultural products exported outside the United States reached $704.5 million in the fiscal year ending in July, a state Agriculture Department marketing official said Tuesday.

The increase was 38.5 per cent over the 1973 fiscal value of $508.3 million.

Terry Culver, export marketing specialist for the Agriculture Department, reports that soybeans accounted for 38 per cent of Missouri's agricultural exports in fiscal 1974. Soybean exports were valued at $265.1 million.

Feed grains accounted for 18 per cent of Missouri's exports and were valued at $125.2 million. Protein meal was next in value at $86.5 million, followed by wheat and flour at $71.1 million.

The latter two products accounted for 13 and 11 per cent, respectively, of the state's agricultural exports.

Lard and tallow, soybean oil, cotton, meat, hides and miscellaneous other products combined to account for 19 per cent of the state's exports. Culver said the final 1 per cent was made up of poultry, cotton seed oil, rice, dairy products, tobacco, fruits and vegetables.

Missouri ranked 15th nationally in the value of agricultural products exported to other countries.

States ranking ahead of Missouri were Illinois, $1,983.8 million; Iowa, $1,774.3 million; Texas, $1,666.5 million; Kansas, $1,569.3 million; California, $1,240.1 million; Minnesota, $1,161.7 million; Nebraska, $1,030.7 million; Indiana, $967.4 million; North Dakota, $842.2 million; North Carolina, $772.4 million and Arkansas, $757.5 million.

At wit's end Un-permanent

By ERMA BOMBECK
I kicked my husband's foot as he snored in a chair. "Know what I read in the paper today?" Vidal Sassoon said that men's hair is going toward a 'marvelous, curly Greek boy look with the new un-permanent.'"
He blinked his eyes and rearranged his body in the chair. "What's that again? The Greeks have permanent damage from a typhoon?"
"You aren't listening to me. You never listen to me. I'm talking about the new men's hair styles. This year, your hair is supposed to look like a 'marvelous, curly Greek boy.'"
"When Kojak gets a blow and go cut, I'll look like a 'marvelous, curly Greek boy.'"
"The new un-permanent is replacing the new un-haircut look," I mused.

"What was the un-haircut look?"
"You never had it." I said. "Fred had it."
"You mean where he parted his hair in the back of his head, combed two 18-inch strands of hair forward and arranged them in a semi-circle over his forehead?"
"What's the matter with that?"
"I never looked at Fred that I didn't think of a bas relief map of California."
"Dwayne had an un-haircut." Dwayne looked like June Allyson with a migraine.
"Doesn't it bother you at all that you and Robert Haldeman are the only two men walking around in North America today who have ears?"
"No. To me, if you're going to get a haircut, it should look like you got a haircut."

"That's the kind of a remark I'd expect from a man who didn't shave one Saturday and called himself a Hippie. You've been mad at barber shops ever since they cancelled their subscription to the Police Gazette."
"That's not true. I just personally believe that Joe Garagiola and I are ahead of our time with the un-hair look."
"Does that mean you aren't going to look like a 'marvelous curly Greek boy' this year?"
Without answering he left and room and returned in a few moments with one of my curly wigs perched atop his head. "Well," he asked, "whatya think?"
With a Greek comedy on a tragic body you don't know whether to laugh or cry.

Jaycees' case under advisement

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The U. S. District Court has taken under advisement the Kansas City Jaycees' effort to keep the national organization from shifting a convention from here.

Judge William R. Collinson, who presided at a two-day evidentiary hearing that ended Monday, had issued a restraining order last month enjoining the U. S. Jaycees from moving the Ten Outstanding Young Men Awards Congress to Palm Springs, Calif. The national organization challenged Judge Collinson's restraining order before the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, which dissolved the order and directed the evidentiary hearing to be held.

The local chapter contends the proposed move amounts to retaliation for the chapter's admission of women.

A letter to the Kansas City chapter in September advised it was "not in good standing."

A spokesman for the national Jaycees testified Monday the move to Palm Springs was sought partially because the Kansas City chapter demonstrated a lack of preparation for the convention. Admission of women was also part of the decision, he said.

The evidentiary hearing dealt only with the question of whether the U. S. Jaycees could cancel its contract with the local chapter and move the awards congress. In his October hearing, Judge Collinson held that because the U. S. Jaycees are subsidized by federal funds, they are a quasi-public corporation and cannot cancel a contract without a full hearing.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Pregnancy after tubal ligation

Dear Dr. Lamb — Some four years ago I had a tubal ligation. Because I was only 31 and there was no medical reason for it, I had to go through a lot of red tape and even went to another state to get it done. Since then I have had my 12th living child. The pregnancy was normal, but she was a breech birth, and it was very hard on me.

The explanation given me by the doctors was the egg had fertilized around the tissue of the tubes. Now, I am anxious to find out what the chances of it happening again are. I should add the pathologist report after birth confirmed the tubes are still cut and tied. I have several friends who have also had this operation and are worried it could happen to them.

Dear Reader — If the tubes are cut and tied, there is no way a pregnancy can occur unless an ovum (egg) has already passed through the tube before the operation. That opportunity would be present only about a day after the operation at the most. There is a slight possibility of a tubal pregnancy limited to a couple of days' time.

Otherwise the egg has to pass through the tube to be implanted in the uterus. Some operations fail because the cut and tied tubes literally repair themselves. They reconnect even if the surgery was done perfectly. Remember your body is designed to correct injuries and nature regards such an operation as an injury. This occurs very rarely.

In a Food and Drug Administration study only one woman in 200 got pregnant in a year's time after a tubal ligation. That is about as good or better than you can expect from any birth control procedure.

Another reader recently wrote in about tubal ligation and stated she was now pregnant. She was concerned about whether her baby would be normal or not. There is no reason why a baby should have any greater chance of being abnormal when a pregnancy does occur after a tubal ligation.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you tell me what should be done with a 12-year-old boy with one undescended testicle? He weighs 80 pounds and is thin.

Seven years ago he had a hernia operation on the same side as the undescended testicle. Could the scar tissue have prevented the testicle from coming down? Is it dangerous to have it go untreated?

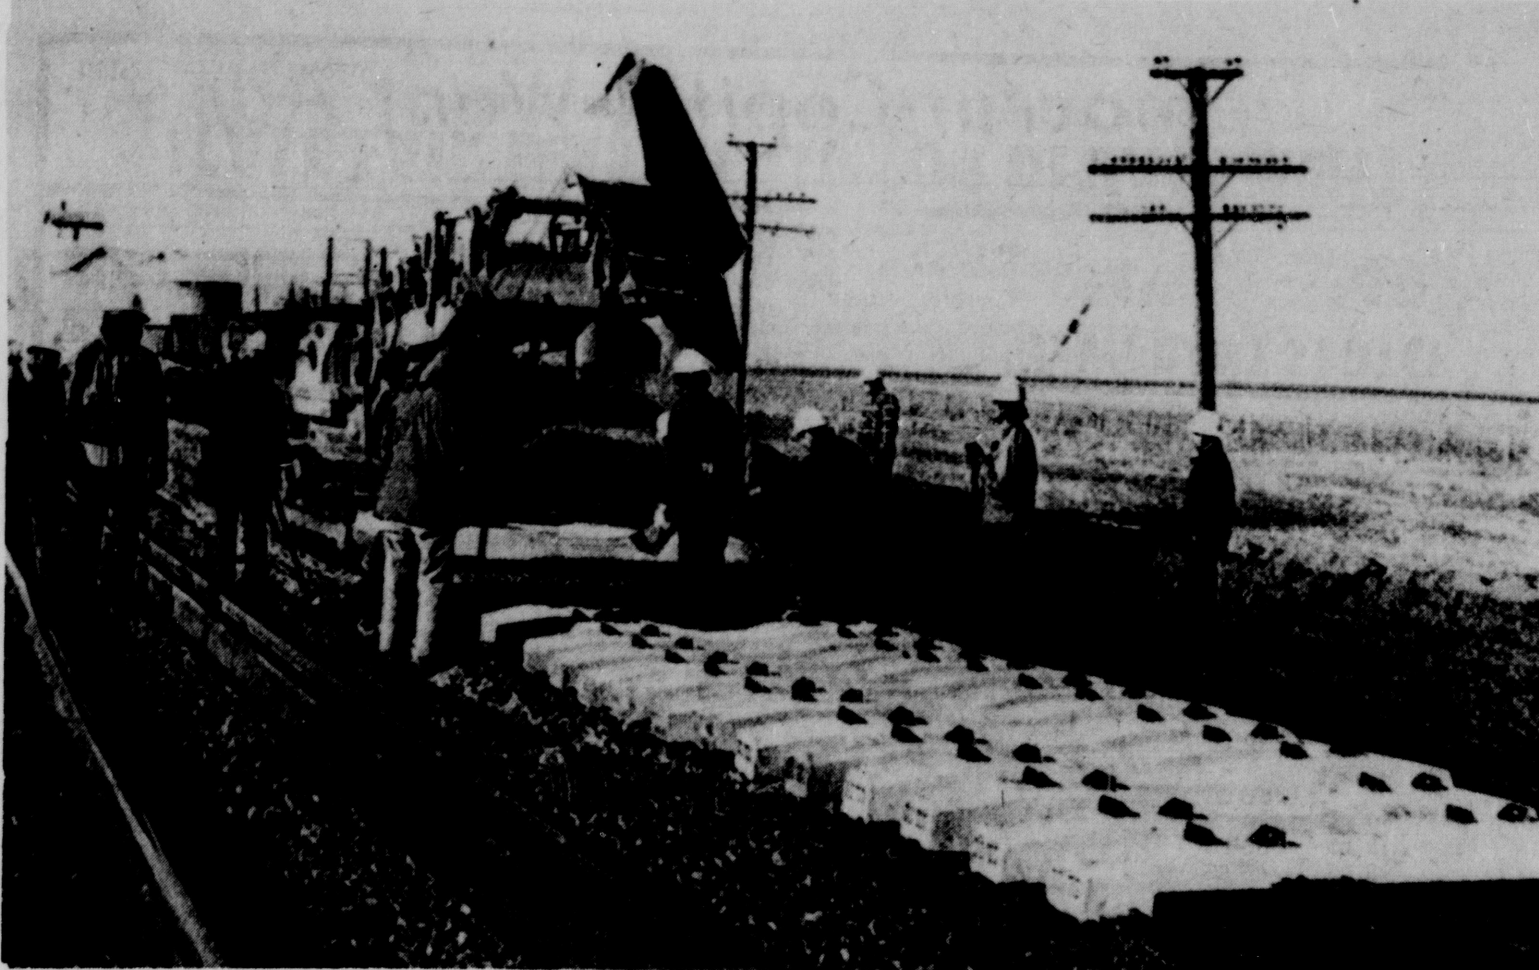

Dear Reader — See a doctor right away about correcting this. Most doctors agree that if the problem has not been corrected by 8 or 9 years of age the testicle should be lowered surgically.

If it is done too late, and you are already pushing your luck, the testicle will never be able to produce live sperm. Your son's ability to be a father will depend solely on the one descended testicle. So, if you want to help your son, don't delay any longer.

Many men have only one descended testicle and father children and otherwise have no problems, but it is a risk you need not take. There is some chance that the undescended testicle will later develop a tumor. All factors considered, including the psychological ones, it should be corrected early in life. (NEA)

Missouri crop harvest gains are significant

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Four days suitable for field work last week allowed significant harvest gains in all of Missouri's crops.

The Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service noted Monday the corn harvest had advanced by last Saturday nine percentage points over the previous week to 78 per cent. That compared with 83 per cent for the similar period last year.

Grain sorghum was 71 per cent harvested, 11 points advanced from the week earlier; the soybean crop was 77 per cent completed, 10 points advanced, and 78 per cent of the cotton was harvested, nine points above the previous week.

Fall seeding was 88 per cent complete and plowing, 43 per cent.

Escapees are back in jail

VIENNA, Mo. (AP) — Two inmates charged with rape and armed robbery were back in the Maries County Jail today after being apprehended Monday night in a wooded area about 10 miles southwest of here.

Highway patrolmen and sheriff's officers picked up the pair without resistance. They are Richard Zeitvogel, 18, Highland, Ill., and Michael Williams, 26, Dixon, Mo.
